JDR Award

Self-Nomination Welcome

---

To mark the 10th anniversary of the founding of Journal of Disaster Research (JDR), the JDR editorial committee is pleased to announce the establishment of the JDR Award.

The JDR Award is to be presented to those associated with JDR who have made major contributions to the field of disaster research.

Among the types of contribution to be considered are:

- Author(s) of academic papers or articles in JDR that have received high recognition, including those having a high academic value and those that have had a major social impact
- Editor(s) and/or planner(s) of JDR special issues that have proven highly useful, unique, and/or timely
- Referees who have reviewed many papers and/or articles for JDR

Those selected to receive the JDR Award will be announced in an issue of JDR, together with the reasons for the award and the selection process. Those receiving the Award will be given an award certificate and a commemorative gift.

No limitations are placed on dates or periods of achievements considered.

The first Award will be presented in 2015, after which the Award will be presented to a single party each year, in principle.

JDR invites our readers to submit nominations, including self-nominations, for this Award.
